To Whom It May Concern,

Subject: Demand for Mandamus Ruling: Addressing Systemic Targeting and Enforcement of Legal Rights

This document serves as formal notice demanding a mandamus ruling to address the systemic injustices that have culminated in a legal and ethical breach of my rights. As a whistleblower and an individual with a disability, I have endured decades of systemic targeting, leading to financial exploitation, homelessness, and legal inconsistencies. This targeting reflects a broader failure of institutions to protect vulnerable individuals, as evidenced in the supporting documents outlined below.

I am being systematically abused, neglected, and tortured, both politically and via deception, in plain view of the public. My character has been assassinated through false narratives, further isolating me from justice and accountability. Despite being a citizen of a democratic nation, I am a refugee seeking asylum within the democracy of my own citizenship. This underscores the brutal and unjust treatment I have endured for over thirty years.

The relentless persecution and systemic targeting led me to attempt suicide to escape the abuse. However, after being revived, I was forced to live in my car under the so-called care of the corrupt National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS). This agency, under the direction of a minister I exposed as being complicit in the misappropriation of $6 billion in public funds, has directly fueled my exile. The funds, instead of serving vulnerable Australians, were funneled to enrich the corrupt elite.

My suffering is the direct result of my role as a whistleblower who was rejected under the Public Interest Disclosure (PID) Act, a breach of legislation that violates the laws of the Commonwealth. By exposing this systemic corruption, I became a target of political retribution, forced into a cycle of homelessness, deprivation, and systemic neglect.

Why Aligned's Demand for Eviction on the 5th Is Illegal, Unethical, and Unjust

1. Legal Contradiction of NCAT Rulings

- NCAT issued a ruling explicitly granting me tenancy until the 15th of [month]. This decision provides legal protections under the Residential Tenancies Act 2010 (NSW).
- Aligned Community Care's demand that I vacate by the 5th directly contradicts NCAT's ruling and constitutes an unlawful attempt to enforce premature eviction.

- This demand exploits the inconsistency in NCAT rulings, undermining judicial authority and violating fundamental tenant rights.

Supporting Evidence:

- OHCHR Submission, page 22 describes the systemic abuse and financial exploitation I have faced, which has left me vulnerable to such legal contradictions.
- Formal Opposition to Eviction, page 24 documents how NCAT's contradictory decisions have enabled coercive actions by Aligned Community Care.

Demand for Mandamus Ruling

I demand that NCAT issue a mandamus ruling to:

1. Enforce its decision granting tenancy until the 15th: Aligned Community Care's actions must be halted immediately, and my legal right to remain on the property until the 15th must be enforced must be enforced.

2. Hold Aligned Community Care accountable: Their unlawful demand for eviction by the 5th reflects a clear breach of ethical obligations and legal standards.

3. Investigate institutional complicity: Address the systemic failures and potential conspiracy that have enabled this targeting, ensuring accountability across all agencies involved.

Conclusion

The demand for eviction by the 5th, in direct violation of NCAT's ruling, is not only illegal but also emblematic of the systemic targeting I have faced. A mandamus ruling is necessary to rectify this injustice, enforce legal protections, and address the broader institutional failures that have perpetuated my marginalization.
